“ Asante you were taken way too soon... My only son Andrew is having a difficult time understanding your sudden absence in his life. Asante you were his best friend... You spent many nights at our place just hanging out with my Andrew, I would walk out at night to check on yall and you two would be up in the tree house just stargazing up at the dark sky and talking... You were even there for our wedding two years ago in our backyard. On Monday night my son Andrew asked me if I would sit with him out in the back yard to look at the stars, he talked so much about you and shared some memorable photos of you two. Asante my son is hurting with your sudden departure, he doesn't understand or know how to cope with it as he has never experienced anything like this in his young life. I want to thank you for being a true friend to my son and ask you to always look over him... My condolences to the family for this tragic loss, may the Lord give you the strength and heal your hearts during this difficult loss.

Asante you will never be forgotten....

“I like your attitude.”

These were words I said to him during a shift.

Asante was an exceptional EMT, and would have been a wonderful paramedic. He was in this field for all the right reasons. Those who knew him grieve his loss, but the loss echoes even to those who would have been in his care in the future.

Asante, you are missed by people you never even met.
